Continuation of 5. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: the applicant's arguments are directed to those that were already addressed by the examiner in the final rejection. However, the examiner notes that the new arguments presented in pages 8-11 by the applicant arguing that means plus for heat removing means has not shown by the examiner that removes heat rom said module via a first face of said module to the soleplate the examiner responds that the means plus function is channels/pipes that remove heat from the chip(s) to the soleplate 19 as stated by the examiner in the final rejection.

The examiner further recommends to the applicant that the claim language of the independent claims need to be further narrowed in order to make the case in an allowable condition.
